Hope For Wholeness Referral Ministry

He rescued me because He delighted in me. Ps 18:19b

THIS MONTH'S MEDITATION SCRIPTURE: But the LORD said to Samuel, "Do not look at his appearance or at the height of his stature, because I have rejected him; for God sees not as man sees, for man looks at the outward appearance, but the LORD looks at the heart." 1 Samuel 16:7

God is Raising Up Young Leaders in the Post-Gay Movement

As in every move of God, He is always raising up new leaders who are being trained to wear the mantle and receive the baton from the leaders of the previous generation. I've been noticing God doing this again in the post-gay movement. They are coming from varied locations, backgrounds and ethnicities. But one thing they have in common is a fire that burns within from the Holy Spirit to share how Father apprehended them and has set them free from the bondage that had held them captive in their homosexual and transgendered lives. He is raising them up as new voices in the midst of a world that is turning its back on God and bringing persecution upon the Church.

As I observe these up and coming leaders, my heart longs to see them disciplined and trained within the context of local churches and organizations, rather than striking out on their own as lone-rangers without spiritual covering and/or protection. This is not to say that when they are released into ministry they will automatically end up serving within those congregations or organizations, although that may be the case. But in their training process, there should be submission and commitment to the authority and covering of those who are providing that equipping, regardless of where they are led to serve.

The apostle Paul trained for three years after his road to Damascus conversion before he began any kind of public ministry. Jesus lived for thirty years before Father released Him. Their examples are fitting ones to follow for growing new leaders within our midst.

In the training time, I believe the most important thing to discern is on whom the Lord's hand rests. Our meditation Scripture this month comes from the story of the Lord raising up David to take Saul's place as king as He sent Samuel to anoint David. In the natural, David did not seem like a fit candidate, yet Samuel came to recognize in the Spirit that he was the Lord's choice. Also, as with David's example, a leader must first know how to follow before he can lead.

Emerging godly leaders must be committed to Jesus as King and Lord, and be maturing in their relationship with Him. They must be teachable and willing to be disciplined as they surround themselves with proven teachers and counselors who will instruct them and to whom they will listen (and obey), and who will invest time training them. They must be willing to be accountable to their teachers or instructors, not toward perfection, but towards maturity. They must be growing in the fruit and gifts of the Spirit. They must be reading, searching, and growing in their knowledge of the Scriptures, as well as developing a powerful and consistent prayer life. Godly leaders must learn to love the way Father's loves, and walk in humility, laying aside pride and arrogance. And, finally, godly leaders must learn to seek and carry out the Lord's plans, and look for His timing to accomplish them.

Please join with me in prayerful support of those men and women the Lord is preparing and releasing to lead our post-gay movement into the challenging times that are ahead as they apprehend all they were apprehended for. And may Father's grace and mercy be on us all as we follow Him into the future of the kingdom of God on earth.

From of the Abba's Delight Overcomers: Daniel: Hi! I sincerely wish you and your family a Merry Christmas! I was very blessed by the article this month. This is precisely where God has me in my personal study and walk with Him—reconciliation and love! These are the two themes of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. After reading your article, I am more convinced and committed to pledge my life to be an example and clear path to others in The Way to find Christ and to express love to all I encounter. Beautiful article and thanks for your ministry to those in the church who are hurting and struggling—sometimes in silence and despair. In Christ,
