Commonwealth Policy Center

Over the past several months, I have been privileged to be one of the speakers at the Commonwealth Policy Center's (CPC) series called Christianity and Culture Conference. CPC strives to protect the tenets upon which the commonwealth of Kentucky was founded, related specifically to life, marriage and fiscal responsibility; also asserting the God-given civil, religious and political freedoms provided for in the Kentucky Constitution.

Richard Nelson, Founder and Executive Director of CPC, led his staff in presenting these events in five cities throughout Kentucky. The topics covered in each of the events included: Reimagining Cultural Engagement; Effectively Communicating in a Post-Christian World; Racial Reconciliation—A Biblical Perspective; Restoring a Culture of Life with Radical Compassion; and Reaching the LGBTQ Community with Truth & Grace, which was the subject of my presentations. I was honored to speak at four of the five events.

Mainly, attendees at these events were church-going believers and pastors, sprinkled with state legislators and city officials. For several years, I have been speaking and writing about how difficult in ministry it has been to get into churches to talk about God's redemptive power in the homosexual's life, and the stories of change God has been bringing about for decades in the lives of those He's led out of LGBTQ existence. Richard and the CPC provided this platform through these conferences to be able both to share my story of transformation and to educate fellow believers on the most effective ways of reaching those still trapped in LGBTQ deception—both of which they are most likely not hearing in their own congregational settings.

Time and again, I was told by attendees they never knew ministries like Abba's Delight existed; or that they never had heard stories of someone leaving an LGBTQ life to follow Jesus. I was able to address that there is no proof anyone is 'born gay.' I was able to speak about the concerted effort to silence the church by those pushing a radical LGBTQ agenda, as well as expose some of the horrors of the proposed federal Equality Act. Because of my personal involvement in The CHANGED Movement and The Freedom Marches, I had opportunity to share about what God is doing currently in redeeming souls away from LGBTQ life.

I am grateful to the Lord, and to Richard with the CPC staff, for inviting me to participate in such an important series provided to the public. Being able to reach Christians outside the church walls has been a wonderful answer to prayers. May the Lord continue to provide many more such opportunities for me, and may He continually bless the work of the Commonwealth Policy Center!

End of Year Donations

Thank you to everyone who has donated in 2021 to Abba's Delight ministry. Your generosity has enabled us to continue the work we do in bringing hope and healing to those impacted by unwanted LGBTQ issues; bringing discipleship into the lives of our participants and family/friends group; participating in conferences and events that help further our education and ministry; sowing into the lives of those Father puts in our path. Thank you for supporting what Father has called us to do. Please prayerfully consider continuing your gifts.

If you have never given before, we would love to add you as a monthly donor or a one-time giver. Especially if you are a pastor whose church can support Abba's Delight as part of your missions giving! A monthly donation commitment will enable us to know what we can count on throughout 2022. If you believe in the equipping work Abba's Delight is doing in the hearts of those who have left LGBTQ lives or attractions to follow Jesus, please help us continue those equipping endeavors. Thank you all for your prayerful consideration.
