He rescued me because He delighted in me. Ps 18:19b

THIS MONTH'S MEDITATION SCRIPTURE: An excellent wife, who can find? For her worth is far above jewels. The heart of her husband trusts in her, and he will have no lack of gain. Prov 31:10,11

National Spouse Day

Today in the USA is National Spouse Day. It is believed its origins were in the early 2000's, and according to marriage.com it is marked annually on January 26th "to honor and celebrate the unique bond and partnership between spouses."

So, today, in this article, I want to take the opportunity to celebrate and honor my wife Fran, who has stood with me, put up with me, prayed for me, loved me, fought with me, helped me, encouraged me, laughed with me, raised three sons with me, ministered with me, and sought the Lord with me for over 41 years.

Not everyone who deals with unwanted LGBTQ issues in their lives is called to be married, but I was. And even though I was confident in pursuing marriage as the Lord's will, I moved forward in faith, trusting the Lord would work out all the things that needed to be worked out, especially since I failed to tell Fran about my nearly 30-year involvement in homosexuality until we were married for ten years and had three sons. Nine of those years I was anonymously and secretly hooking up with men, dishonoring our vows and the covenant we made before the Lord.

When I voluntarily repented and confessed it all to her under the conviction of the Holy Spirit, Fran forgave me and has supported me for over three decades of sexual addictions recovery. There was never a time when separation or divorce were mentioned or even considered. This woman of God saw in me what our Father has seen, things I couldn't even see for myself. And I am so thankful!

Fran homeschooled our sons for years, some of that time also working outside the home part-time. Early on when our sons came along, she even offered to take over the family finances responsibility to relieve me of the task.

Fran is a serious prayer warrior and intercessor. She has been a godly example of a wife and mother to younger women in the Lord, and has been a good friend to others in and outside of the Church. She is kind, generous, thoughtful, encouraging and is always up for going out for coffee or breakfast or lunch with friends. She is the most beautiful woman I know, and carries the Lord in her with grace. I have been blessed beyond measure by the Lord with Fran by my side. Thank You, Father. Thank you, Fran, all my love. "Charm is deceitful and beauty is vain, but a woman who fears the Lord shall be praised." Prov 31:30
